HOW THE MAJORITY WILL VOTE
A majority of the voters of Bay St. Louis will today cast their vote for R. W. WEBB for Mayor first as a business proposition—for it will be to their best interest—and secondly as an appreciation of his services and in recognition of his splendid record.

THIRTY-FIRST YEAR—No. 7.

WESTON-BRIGGS.

The wedding of Miss Susie Briggs, daughter of Mrs. Minna Williams, Briggs to Mr. Harold B. Weston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Weston of Logtown, Miss., was beautifully solemnized on Wednesday, at five o'clock at Christ Episcopal Church with Rev. Harry Perry, officiating.

The church was decorated with a profusion of white roses, lilies and narcissus against a background of palms, garlands of anthurus and ferns. The altar and chancel were decorated with East-West and ferns and pedestals of white and silver candles. The bride wore a white tulle gown, all of which made a lovely setting for the ceremony.

Miss Maudie of Okolona, Miss., presided at the organ. Miss Katherine Schmidt of New Orleans gave an exquisite rendition of "Cavatina" as a violin solo, after which the bride party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March." The groomsmen were Messrs. Clement Weston and Edwin Briggs. Mr. Roland Weston, brother of the groom, served as best man. Miss Briggs had as her attendants, Misses Ezrene Bouchelle of Boliguel, Ala., and Alice Chapman, as bridesmaids; Miss Dorothy Weston as maid of honor; Little Junior Russ, ring bearer; as flower girls, Little Misses Ann and Elizabeth Edwards and Effie Graham Power. The bridesmaids wore lovely dresses of silver lace, with over dresses of changeable silver and rose tulle, with touches of French flowers and American Beauty velvet. Their hats were of silver lace and they carried arm bouquets of Premier roses. The maid of honor wore a beautiful dress of silver lace and blue crepe satin, trimmed with pink roses. Her hat was also of silver lace, and she carried Columbia roses tied with blue tulle.

The little flower girls wore pink tulle dresses trimmed in pink and blue rose buds, and scattered rose petals from baskets of sweet peas. Effie Graham Power carried a tiny French bouquet of pink rose buds and forget-me-nots. The ring bearer wore a black velvet suit with white ruffled silk shirt.

The bride entered with her mother and was exquisitely gowned in dress of heavy white satin with over dress of pearls. Her veil of illusion was held by a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms, which was most becoming. The train was of beautiful Spanish lace and fell from the shoulders. Her flowers were bride's roses and valley lilies arranged in a chateau bouquet and tied with bridal illusion.

Mrs. Briggs gown was of black satin, with over dress of sequins, showing touches of blue and fuchsia. She wore a corsage of Parma violets and Valley lilies. Mrs. John Weston, mother of the groom, wore a handsome black lace dress and a corsage of Sunburst roses.

A reception to the bridal party, relatives and out-of-town guests, at the home of the bride's mother, followed the ceremony.

Receiving with Mrs. Briggs were Mrs. John Weston, Mrs. Landers and Mrs. Williams.

The color scheme of green white was carried out in the dining room. The central ornament of the bride's table was a three-story wedding cake topped by a miniature wedding bell. As the bride cut the cake, the members of the bridal party pulled white ribbons at the ends of which were concealed favors. White silk tulle ran from the chandelier to the four corners of the table and silver candlesticks with green shades turned white candles.

Mrs. Leo Seal presided over the punch bowl and cake and punch was served to the guests.

In the spacious reception hall, the colors of fuchsia and green were predominant in the decorations and here many handsome wedding gifts attested to the popularity of the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Weston left immediately after the reception for a short trip and after March 1st will be at home in Logtown.

The bride wore for traveling suit a blue suit of moussine trimmed in squirrel with hat of black crepe and harmonizing accessories.

The bride is the charming and accomplished daughter of Mrs. M. W. Briggs, of this city. A graduate of Bay High, Mississippi Normal and Newcomb College. A most lovable young woman who enjoys an unusually wide circle of friends wherever she is known.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weston of Logtown, Miss., well-known and prominent in business and social circles and deserving of the hand of the fair young lady whose heart he has won.

The Echo joins the many friends of the contracting parties in extending heartiest felicitations.

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.

DEATH OF MRS. BLANCHE MULLER LA CRONE.

A message from New Orleans on Wednesday morning, February 8th, 1922, announced the passing away of the young and gentle spirit of Mrs. Paul M. La Crone, nee Blanche Muller, a native of Bay St. Louis, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Muller, Sr., former and well-known residents of this city for nearly 20 years. Mrs. La Crone was also a sister of Mr. George J. Muller, former assistant cashier of the Merchants Bank, and a niece of C. G. Moreau of this city.

The deceased was taken ill shortly after Christmas and her death followed as a result. For one so young and whose illness was of short duration her passing away was a distinct shock to the friends and others who knew her, both here and in New Orleans. Her husband and a daughter, Dorris, 5 years old, survive.

The funeral took place in New Orleans Thursday morning from the late residence in Salcedo, near Canal streets, and from the church of the Sacred Heart and interment at Metairie Cemetery, a wealth of flowers decorated the tomb, and attesting to the love and affection in which the deceased was held by the many.

Mrs. La Crone was educated by the sisters of St. Joseph, Bay St. Louis and New Orleans. She was 29 years of age. Of her, it can truly be said she was a loving daughter, a dutiful wife, a devoted mother, and a true friend. We know of no fitting and more worthy tribute. Her death leaves a void in seeking hearts and her memory will ever remain fresh in the minds and hearts of those who loved and knew her.

CENTRAL SCHOOL NOTES.

After an absence of nearly four months the sixth grade are glad to welcome Emile Larroux to their class again.

On Wednesday afternoon the pupils of the 5th and 6th grade enjoyed a Valentine Party. The following was the program rendered:

"Fairy Valentines"—Barbara Sick
"Important Days in February"—Alvin Genin, Earl Netto, Velma Baker, Rene de Monthuzin, Robert Deacon, Dave Sellers, Albert Oliver, George Beningo, George Maynard.

"Which?"—Helen Chapman.

"Sir Valentine"—Wm. Horlock.

"A Valentine"—Laura Gex.

Valentines were distributed to all present by Conrad Sick, who acted as postmaster.

Delicious refreshments were served. The guests present were: Mrs. J. C. Smith, Misses Vicky Gex, Amelia Deacon, Cline Fayard, Clara Kergosien, Alma Genin, Iva Baker, Ethel Horlock, Estelle Collier, Mrs. T. B. Glover and Master Wallace Smith.

On February 10th, a regular meeting of the C. T. A. was held at the Central school.

The meeting was called to order by the president.

Reading of minutes of previous meeting for reference.

Mr. McGluer suggested that a public library be organized in the High School and that a librarian be employed to spend 2 days a week in the library through the summer months.

The C. T. A. wants a suggestion how to advertise our Association.

A motion was made by Mrs. C. McDonald and seconded by Mrs. M. Drake, that a committee be appointed to notify the citizens when a meeting is to be held.

It was unanimously understood that a meeting of the C. T. A. be held on the 15th of the month.

Mr. Robert Genin came in and addressed the school and instructed the ladies how to cast their ballot on election day.

A motion was made and seconded that a resolution of thanks be extended Mr. Genin for his interesting talk.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

The Bay Hi Basketball boys lost their third game on Thursday. The team was disorganized and in need of practice. The team from Pass Christian showed a splendid spirit and did good team work. They have a light but a fast bunch of boys.

The entire school is indeed glad that Miss Pearson is getting back to her usual high spirits after her illness last week. She was greatly missed during her absence.

The boys and girls from the high school are busily engaged in perfecting a minstrel performance. This work, together with the examination this week, keeps most of us going early and late.

We are planning to give the minstrel followed by a dance at the Woodmen Hall, on Wednesday night at 8:00 o'clock, February 22nd. We feel that those who attend this performance will all go away rejoicing that they were permitted to be present. The proceeds will be used to furnish playground equipment for the school.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN SATURDAY NIGHT.

"Road to Paradise" and Other Features, Including Sketches By the Shields Well Received by Crowded House—Benefit Guild of Christ Episcopal Church.

A large and cultured audience assembled at Woodmen auditorium last Saturday night to witness the presentation of an entertainment that was far above the average, and which was received with much enthusiasm and liberal applause, testifying to the merit of the program. Such liberal manifestation was an appreciation worthy bestowed.

The first number was a series of tableaux, representing stories of childhood days. These were vividly and truthfully portrayed by a number of younger people. Mrs. J. H. Elliott had this in charge and the success of the presentations reflected her talent and ability. It might not be amiss here to say that Mrs. Elliott is the authoress of a number of plays.

Miss Evelyn Lacoste, gifted with marvelous voice, successfully rendered a number followed by an encore, and as a prelude to the pantomime play, "The Road to Paradise," sang "The Way to Paradise" with much feeling and usual ability.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Shields, local favorites, rendered the playlet, a travesty on "Camille," injected with lot of local allusions. The farce was presented in their own inimitable way and was uproariously funny. They were liberally applauded and it was evident they had won favor over the entire house.

Mrs. Walter Saxon, well-known New Orleans reader, presented the monologue, "Mirandy," by Dorothy Dix. Her interpretation was excellent and took with instant favor. The attention given a performer and the applause that followed are unfailing registers of the audience's pleasure and appreciation.

Last but by no means least, was the presentation of the pantomime, "The Road to Paradise," poem by the late Catherine Cole, read by Mrs. Saxon behind the wings and interpreted by Miss Lillie Ansley as the fair young maiden in quest of paradise, and Mr. Santos Shields as the Youth who shows the way. Other figures prominently portraying the story were Eugene Ansley as old age, Gordon Borden as the beggar, Randolph Firsching as the stalwart young soldier and Bernard Shields as God's good man. The gentlemen were excellent in their respective portrayals. Miss Ansley and Santos Shields were ideal in the cast, and so finished was their presentation that nothing was left to be desired. Their work was beautiful and refreshing.

This concluded the program and dancing until the midnight hour concluded the evening's pleasure.

The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Guild of the Christ Episcopal Church, and it might well be said the effort was both a social and financial success. Among the workers in the cause who helped to make this success possible were Mesdames Abrahams, Rea, Leonhard, Horton, Chapman, Power, Firsching, Borden, Crawford, Fournier, deMonthuzin, Edwards, Worsley, Nelson, Perry.

HENRY FORD'S HALF DOZEN SUCCESS RULES.

(Albert Sidney Gregg, in Leslie's Weekly.)

"For the benefit of young men who are striving to make the most of themselves, I am willing to name some of the rules that have been of help to me. I did not find them in a book, but evolved them myself out of my experiences."

Henry Ford, of Detroit was the speaker. We were at luncheon and had been discussing a variety of matters.

"Work is my first rule of success," he continued, "and I want every young man to learn that rule so thoroughly that he never will forget it. A wise man has said that genius is but an unusual faculty for taking pains, and I know he is right. What do dreams and ideals amount to, if you are not willing to peg away at dry routine labor to make them tangible?"

"If you are hammering away at something, don't give up because you fail to find the combination the first time. Stick at it. You certainly won't win by quitting."

"Of course they are all important but one that I think a great deal of is. Take time to do things well. It was just twelve years from the time I made my first automobile until I manufactured any for sale. And in that 12 years I made only five cars. I was testing and experimenting. It was a time of getting ready. In recent years we have spent $40,000,000 preparing to make and sell tractors. Now we have everything in shape, and we will make and market a million a year. We are ready because we have tested the machine at every point, have overcome every possible objection and know what it will do."

"Right in connection with this rule I want to say that I have always found that it paid to get all the facts I could myself. For that reason I keep in close touch with everything in which I am interested. Others may report with perfect honesty but they may not see all that should be seen."

"Another perfect good rule is to be optimistic! What I mean is for you to believe that good is stronger than evil and will eventually triumph. 'Last of all, don't be too proud to do anything within your power to push the business in which you are engaged.' Fool pride gets in the way of a man's advancement. So don't be afraid of overalls or a little grease or dirt, if such things are a part of the job to be done."

"Foolish pride never gets a man anywhere. It is a great hindrance. 'These rules will work. I know, for I have tried every one of them.'"

At this exceptionally low price no merchant or manufacturer can afford to do without a Ford one-ton truck. A truck that has always been considered by owners as the greatest value for the money, even when sold at a higher price.

Its power, endurance, dependability, economy of upkeep and operation, and its capacity to handle loads safely are well known Ford Truck qualities, and so recognized by farmers and business concerns the country over.

The extremely low price is creating an increased demand for the Ford one-ton truck, so we advise the placing of your order now to insure reasonably prompt delivery. Terms if desired.

You feed Grain in Winter.

Why not Now?

Silage and roughage used for winter feeding are better than most pasturage. The average pasture is never balanced, never uniform throughout the season - protein being the element most lacking. Thousands of dairy men have proved that this shortage is perfectly replaced by -

Purina Cow Chow

Every 100 lbs. of Cow Chow contains 24 lbs. of protein, 87% of which is digestible. This makes it possible to balance the cow's ration under all conditions and obtain an average of -

6 lbs. more milk per day per cow

at an additional cost of about 6c per cow - a clear profit of about 10c per cow per day, or over $3.00 per month. Let your own cows tell you more about it. Test it yourself!

Official Journal of The Board of Supervisors, Hancock County, Miss.
Official Journal of Board of Mayor and Aldermen City of Bay St. Louis.

CITY ECHOES.

—Mrs. John Davis, of St. Louis, Mo., is the guest of her friends, Mrs. Abrahams and Mrs. Power at their home on the beach front. Mrs. Davis has been the recipient of many social attentions, although here only a comparatively short while.

—Mrs. L. N. Word, Mrs. H. R. Piccaluga, Jr., and Miss Bernice Piccaluga came out from New Orleans Sunday for the day, guests at the home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. R. deMontluzin.

—Rev. Father A. P. Heick, Lead of the local seminary, has returned from a business trip to Jackson, Miss., where he is widely known, stationed at that place for twelve years, laboring in the Master's vineyard.

—Mrs. (Dr.) A. P. Smith and Miss Hilda Spurl were visitors to Gulfport a few days ago.

—An interesting news item is the visit of the stork on Wednesday morning of last week to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Pittman, who reside on the Western Farm. The newcomer is of the gentler sex, and tipped the scale at 12 pounds at birth. Mr. Pittman is perhaps better known as the former County agent of Hancock County, and Mrs. Pittman, before her marriage, was Miss Sallie Chiot, former county demonstration agent. Both are widely and favorably known over Hancock County and The Echo joins their many friends in well wishing, and we extend our congratulations.

—The Young Peoples' Missionary Society met Thursday evening at the hospitable beach home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ansley. The occasion was the election of officers, with the following results: Bert Jackson, president; Emma Summerville, vice-president; Hermie Perkins, treasurer. There was an attendance of 35, and 8 new members. An interesting and well-arranged program followed. The society is active and its finances are in a flourishing condition.

—The many friends of Mrs. E. G. Abrahams and daughter, Mrs. Power will learn with regret of their illness this week, victims of the grippe, however, it is pleasant to note both patients show marked improvement and will soon be up and out again.

—Pupils of the Bay High School will put on a high-class minstrel performance on the evening of February 22nd, at Woodmen Hall, for the benefit of athletic fund. In addition there will be a playlet and other numbers, the evening's program followed by a dance. The program for the minstrels is in charge of Prof. Leon McCluer, and Mr. "Bobo" O'Brien, who are past masters in the art of burnt cork entertainment. Miss Pearson, graduate of the Boston School of Expression, has the other part of the program in charge. In all, the evening promises one of unusual entertainment and the cause, too, ought to be a guarantee of a large attendance.

—Thos. Richton, of Bay St. Louis, professional plasterer and worker in cement pavement, etc., has an advertisement in this issue of The Echo offering his services to the people of this city and vicinity. He has been engaged in this work all his life, and is an excellent workman. His prices are reasonable and we can recommend him to those who might be in need of work in this line.

—Miss Rola Bardon, and her mother, Mrs. Maloney, in Carroll avenue, were hostesses to a number of young people Tuesday evening at their beautiful and inviting home. The occasion was a Valentine party. The decorations were in keeping with the color scheme of red, and the various favors were similar. The feature of the evening was dancing the young people enjoyed the fleeting hours of the evening in time to the entrancing music. Although a new resident of this city, Miss Bardon has already formed quite a circle of young friends.

—There will be a basketball game this afternoon on the Central High School campus, beginning at three o'clock. There will be two games, the boys and girls respectively of the Bay High versus Orange Grove Consolidated School of Harrison county, undefeated champions of their class. A small admission will be charged and it is expected there will be a large attendance.

—It is interesting to note that a force of workmen are busily engaged remodeling the building recently purchased by the Bay-Waveland Yacht and Athletic Club, corner of Front and Washington streets. When completed this will easily be the largest and most pretentious clubhouse between New Orleans and Mobile. Contractor Borden has the job and it is expected to see it well and satisfactorily carried out. The members are anxious to have the possession of the building.

Beginning at 2:30 o'clock this Saturday night there will be a dancing carnival, given under the auspices of the Howler Company, 185th Infantry, Mississippi National Guard, as a part of its training and in order to raise funds to equip its armory. Seats for ladies and gentlemen. There will be a general admission of $1.00. Don't forget the time, this Saturday night.

—Mr. J. C. Jones, representative citizen of Hancock County, and well-known resident of Weston, was a business visitor to Bay St. Louis during the early part of the week. Mr. Jones is a candidate for Sheriff and at the proper time will formally announce his candidacy.

—THORNTON'S ELECTRIC STORE, Pass Christian, Miss., General electrical contracting. Telephone 190. Give us a chance on your next.

—A vote for R. W. Webb means a Better and Bigger Bay St. Louis.

—H. R. Gianneloni, of Bay St. Louis, who left here during the late part of last summer is now located with a large oil corporation at Port Neches, Texas, where he is chief chef of the culinary department. Although delighted with his new environment he writes that he misses Bay St. Louis, his friends and the good water here. It is interesting to note that he has fully recovered from the effects of his shattered health. Before he could accept his present position it was necessary to pass a rigid examination before the State Board of Health and given a certificate, according to the Texas laws. That he passed the test successfully will be good news to his local friends and acquaintances. He hopes to return and be back home for the summer.

—A vote for R. W. Webb means a vote for seawall, municipally-owned waterworks and paved streets.

—Mrs. W. J. Harrison entertained very beautifully and delightfully at the Harrison villa on the beach front Monday night in compliment to Miss Susie Briggs, bride of the week. The affair was a "kitchen shower." Only members of the younger set were invited, ten couples in all. The bride-elect and the groom-elect, Mr. Harold Weston were dressed as chefs and every kitchen effect possible was brought into play. Many presents of unusual value were received. After the "shower," refreshments were served and dancing indulged in until a late hour. Mrs. Harrison's affairs are always noted for their success and this one was no exception.

—R. W. Webb has proven a friend of schools. Your vote for him is a vote for schools.

—Mr. Charles C. Brown, well-known business man at New Orleans, was a business visitor to Bay St. Louis during the week.

—The large display advertisement on the front page of this week's Echo, "Let Me Forget," speaks for itself and tells a tale of unvarnished facts. A delegation of friends of the city of Bay St. Louis called at the Echo office this week, contracted for this big space and paid for it. They said they did it for Bay St. Louis. This is splendid patriotism and speaks for itself. Mayor Webb ought to practically receive the unanimous vote of the city in the election today.

—Mr. Harold B. Ayres, managing director of the Old Spanish Trail, came over from Mobile Sunday evening, in which city he directed an address before the Kiwanis Club, and spent the evening with Bay St. Louis friends. While here he was the guest of his personal friend, Mayor R. W. Webb. Mr. Webb is actively interested in the Old Spanish Trail automobile highway, which will connect New Orleans with the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and is always active in the cause.

—Mrs. H. E. Bates of New Orleans and Mrs. M. E. Joyce of Jackson, Miss., are visiting their sister, Mrs. John Osoinach, at the family home on the beach front.

—Mrs. Charles A. Breath, president, and Miss Olga von Drozkowsky, secretary, of the Bay St. Louis Citizens-Teachers' Club, attended the State Convention of the Parent-Teachers' Association held at Gulfport this week. They were guests of Mrs. Hughes, the State president, on whose invitation they attended the meeting.

—A vote for R. W. Webb means a vote for progress and improvement.

—Mr. and Mrs. Olsen and the baby after a visit at the home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Breath and family, will leave today for their home in Kill.

—Miss Medora Smelter has gone to Greenville, Ohio, on a visit of indefinite period to her grandmother and other relatives.

—Mrs. E. J. Leonhard entertained informally at bridge last night in compliment to Mrs. John Davis, of St. Louis, Mo., who is the house guest of Mrs. Power.

DINNER FOR BIRTHDAY.

Dr. and Mrs. James... entertained on Tuesday... offering Miss Susie Briggs and her old Weston and their friends a party.

The color scheme was white and white and the Valentine note was featured. The house was decorated with carnations and roses and the long dining table with the Valentine red, predominant, made a beautiful picture. In the center was a large heart-shaped cake and on either side were crystal candlesticks, with red tapers and shades. At each end of the table were graceful baskets of red carnations and spenglerian fern. A delicious seven-course menu was served to nineteen guests. At each plate were tiny red baskets holding salted nuts and a feature of the evening which caused much merriment, was the reading of the favors of comic valentines.

The guests, besides the host and hostess were: Mrs. M. W. Briggs, Misses Susie Briggs, Alice Chapman, Adrienne O'Neal, house guest of Miss Chapman; Dorothy Weston, of Logtown; Maia Morgan, of Okolona, Miss.; Ezzene Bonchell, of Boligela, Ala.; Katherine Schmidt, of New Orleans and Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Messrs. Harold Weston, Roland Weston, Mannie Baxter, Foster Commager, Edwin Briggs, George Horton, Rembert Rea, C. C. McDonald.

The honoree wore a becoming tulle gown of black velvet and the hostess was gowned in brown silk lace over brown satin.

DAIRY EXPERT WORKING HERE.

Will Interview Dairyman and Individual Cow Owners in This Section on Their Problems.

Mr. R. Colston, of Bay St. Louis arrived here a few days ago and will be in Bay St. Louis for sometime, making a survey of the dairymen and individual cow owners in this vicinity.

He has made a special study of dairy problems, such as the care of the dairy cow, feeding for maximum milk production, selection of cows for high production and other fundamental dairy problems.

While in Bay St. Louis he expects to call on every dairyman and cow owner and discuss these problems.

W. A. McDonald & Son has made it possible for the people interested in the dairy cow to get the benefit of Mr. Colston's expert advice and experience.

TWICE the BEAUTY

—AT—

HALF the COST

THAT IS WHAT YOU GET BY STAINING YOUR SIDING, BOARDING AND TIMBERS, AS WELL AS YOUR SHINGLES WITH—

Cabot's Creosote Stains

Twice the Beauty.

The strong, pure colors of Cabot's Stains are transparent. They sink into the wood and bring out the beauty of the grain and texture of all kinds of lumber—siding, boards or shingles—with velvety depth and richness as these photographs of the stained wood show. A "painty" coating would completely hide all of this natural beauty of the wood.

Half the Cost.

Cabot's Stains cost less than one-half as much as paint; and they can be put on more than twice as quickly, reducing the labor cost—which is much the larger item—by more than half. Shortage of skilled labor will not hold you up, because your own men can apply Cabot's Stains or you can do it yourself.

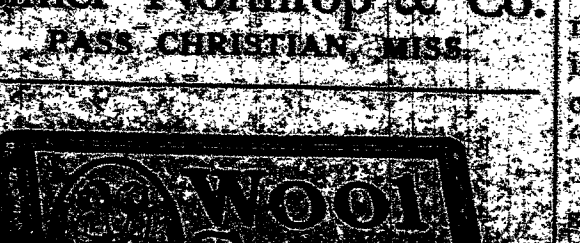

Wood Thoroughly Preserved. Cabot's Stains are made of pure Creosote, which penetrates the wood, and "wood treated with it is not subject to dry-rot or other decay."—Century Dictionary.

Lasting Colors.

The colors wear as long as the best paint, and wear better, because they do not crack or peel as paint does; and they are easily and cheaply renewed.

Write us for catalogue showing how you can get twice the beauty of paint "50 per cent cheaper than paint" and samples of stained wood in moss-green, bungalow-brown, silver-gray, etc., etc.

COLUMN de BULL.

By Fuller Bull.

Spring, Beautiful Spring! Spring, Oh, Beautiful Spring! The poet says: "The little lambs gambol in the meadows." Somebody else says: "The lil' Tigers gambol in the train of Spring. Yes, charmin' Chlorinda, an' you can always tell when the sweet Spring cometh, for everything taketh on a coat of GREEN, an' Nature's scheme easy to approach. O, Slush, Nora, step on the gas. Everybody falls for Spring, the long tall boy with a pleasant smile is old lady Spring's target, she changes his bill an' plays with him, then she enaught by havin' both the Bill and the Change. Bo, I'll tell the cockeyed world this 'dame is all to the violets, she's one more lil' separator."

Sometimes it's very much to the lonesome, an' etc., when you trav'lin' on a train, ain't it? Puts me in mind a one time when a bunch of friends was ridin' the soft seats on the way to Mobile, one of the guys remarks as how he was gravin' action, an' to the furthermore the Pie-butcher on board was in the biz sellin' the necessary implements of torture what contained 52 pages in red an' black. The big guy whaps the center of the yunch says: "All honkeydory with me, fellas, but I gotta hunt the Com. what navigates this train esse I can get this william changed? So out he goes out an' gets as far as the next coach lookin' for the Con. when all of a sudden his long legs refuse to budger, his eyes pop open an' his complexion gets a battleship gray with all flays a flyin'—an' Octavius Roy says: "This Samuel boy done seen 'nough." Right there in a cushion sits Spring, all doddled up in Green. Oh, boy! Samuel slides over with his mouth puckered, up like a motion picture beauty an' his big eyes a beamin' on the Green baby. Said Green baby catches the germ an' shoots back to our Samuel hero—your know that boy is helohel on passes anyhow—then he says: "Scuse me, Miss Spring, I'm lookin' for change, have you the cuss what can liddleze this william? Fact is we boys are cravin' action on the dime limit in the other ear. "Why, cert," says Spring, pullin' out a wad big 'nough to choke a chimney. "I'm lonesome an' I'll confess I'm some foolish bout that Dime-Limit, my lil' self." So that Samuel boy don't do nothing but invite the Sprite to the ramblin' den of them Tigers. Well, Bedalia, its the same old tale of another yarn: Sampson fell for it, Henry the eight times to the like-wise, an' all the bal of the he-guns long the line. When this Samuel tows Spring in on that bunch they snow begins to Melt RIGHT NOW. What'd I tell you in the first spasm? Yes, Bo, you guess it, it was what we call a Spring-cleanin'. After them birds got to Mobile one of them looks sheepish an' says: "Ain't it a dern good thing that we know some folks in this man's town?" "Yas," says another, "An' ain't it nice to know that them fellas are goin' to furnish the cake?" The one what got in the way MUST of the vacuum cleaner, could only sign and whisper: "Let 'em have it!"

But the two that head the list are: The anonymous letter-writer, and the simple-minded gink that waits for St. Valentine's Day to get in his or her dirty work.

The Long Dark Trail.

Laura Jean remarks: "The sprites of the frozen northland howled in derision as they rode the icy blasts." Wow, Zowie, an' Blam! The Hero dodges around the corner of the village's Main st. slaps on the brakes an' yells for a Heroine to accompany him on the perilous adventure. Unhesitatingly out trots a cupla hunh Heroine with a cub Hero by the hand from across the village thoroughfare a fair blonde Heroine comes to the also, another with Rob'd tresses of a mahogany hue answers the call of wild. Our Hero steps on the gas, an' into the face of the settin' sun the savage monster surges. O, Mom!

They're off the land of the 1x12, where the slabs fall to the tune of the whirling saw: Picayune bound! From one road to another they rush the shells vanish an' send an' mud Predominate, thru deep morasses an' slushy holes they splash, till the ca-reem' car seems to a thing alive intent only in its contempt of the elements, each smilin' mile-post is welcomed as the figure five. Finally, an Old Sol dips into the western sky an' says goodnight, they enter the alabed precincts of the long leaf burg, Victors!

(Business round the Station. Heroines & etc., gaze at the town; Hero looks stern on transients as per transaction.) The Splitter lights splutter in the night and shadows steal over the laboring side of the ash cans, prowlin' pups purposely pursue their peregrinations (that's another of friend Laura Jean's) an' the awful wind speeds on. The Hero returns an' limbers up the speed-buster, the bunch of Heroines and the cub-hero snuggle in for comfort an' they're off. The 1x12 burg is left behind with a cherry goodbye, an' visions of home dance like sugar-plums. BUT! As soon as this speed-buster gets in the dark things begin to happen: Bam, goes a tire; the for-said hero plugs her brake, changes the rubber, an' they're at it again, when Slush! up to the hub she goes in a hog-wallow. A Hick comes along an' lends a hand with a fliver an' they crawl out. "Say Mister, where be ye goin'?" inquires the Hick. When told he tells 'em they're on the wrong road, so they go back to the Goodbye place for a new start in life. Another road an' a half mile away another hogwallow, yow, no flivver in sight, no help near; in the inky night the bunch hold a pow-wow, an' the Hero is told to beat it to the burg. He fades, an' as he goes so goes the nerve of the huddled Heroines, every tree at once takes hideous forms, every bush looks like a bear an' every howl of the wind is the cry of a lost soul. O, Mamma, get closer! After that wind in the mud the wheel is roped, she takes an' they're off again with the assistance of a 40 h.p. searchlight which the Hero buys at the burg. Plunging again into the murky blackness, somebody had just remarked that they were in the country of the moonshiners, when to examine a bridge the car stopped, an' friend Hero steps out the back-fires: BAM! Yelling a moonshiner on the brain he throws up both hands and yells: "Don't shoot, I surrender!" It is said that every one of the bunch did likewise. Midnight, an' still mid on miller, slush and slush, there, cargoes from side to side the mad thing leaps, till at last the rubber-tires are hard shells, an' it may go on through the by-gones to the 1x12 burg.

but the two that head the list are: The anonymous letter-writer, and the simple-minded gink that waits for St. Valentine's Day to get in his or her dirty work.

The 1x12 burg is left behind with a cherry goodbye, an' visions of home dance like sugar-plums. BUT! As soon as this speed-buster gets in the dark things begin to happen: Bam, goes a tire; the for-said hero plugs her brake, changes the rubber, an' they're at it again, when Slush! up to the hub she goes in a hog-wallow. A Hick comes along an' lends a hand with a fliver an' they crawl out. "Say Mister, where be ye goin'?" inquires the Hick. When told he tells 'em they're on the wrong road, so they go back to the Goodbye place for a new start in life. Another road an' a half mile away another hogwallow, yow, no flivver in sight, no help near; in the inky night the bunch hold a pow-wow, an' the Hero is told to beat it to the burg. He fades, an' as he goes so goes the nerve of the huddled Heroines, every tree at once takes hideous forms, every bush looks like a bear an' every howl of the wind is the cry of a lost soul. O, Mamma, get closer! After that wind in the mud the wheel is roped, she takes an' they're off again with the assistance of a 40 h.p. searchlight which the Hero buys at the burg. Plunging again into the murky blackness, somebody had just remarked that they were in the country of the moonshiners, when to examine a bridge the car stopped, an' friend Hero steps out the back-fires: BAM! Yelling a moonshiner on the brain he throws up both hands and yells: "Don't shoot, I surrender!" It is said that every one of the bunch did likewise. Midnight, an' still mid on miller, slush and slush, there, cargoes from side to side the mad thing leaps, till at last the rubber-tires are hard shells, an' it may go on through the by-gones to the 1x12 burg.

AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT.
ARTICLE IV—"FERTILIZER ANALYSIS."
Especially Adapted to the Hancock County Farmer and Contributed to the columns of The Sea Coast Echo by S. F. O'Neal, County Agent.

Fertilizer Analysis.
The subject of fertilizer analysis is always of importance to users of this material, and at this time when practically all the farmers will be buying fertilizers, it is of importance that they should be able to know what they are buying. There are many farmers that do not know the meaning of the printed analysis on the bag of fertilizer that they buy, and this article, if studied, will help them to understand this analysis.

All complete fertilizers contain three chemical ingredients, viz: Phosphoric acid, ammonia (or nitrogen which has the same effect on plant growth) and potash. There are a number of other chemical elements used in plant growth, but they are usually abundant in the soil, and are never supplied in commercial form.

Phosphoric Acid.
Practically all of our soils are deficient in this element, which is one of the least expensive in the three mentioned above. Its chief source is from phosphate rock, which is treated with sulphuric acid thus making acid phosphate. This usually analysis 16 percent which means that in each 100 pounds of acid phosphate there is 16 pounds of phosphoric acid. The chief function of phosphoric acid in plant growth is to promote fruiting of the plant.

Nitrogen.
This is the most expensive of the three elements used in commercial fertilizers and for this reason ready mixed fertilizers will often analyze low in nitrogen. The chief sources of nitrogen are cotton seed meal, tankage, dried blood, nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia, and calcium cyanamid. What is usually spoken of as 3 per cent meal will analyze 3 per cent ammonia, which is equal to 6.18 per cent nitrogen. The other sources of nitrogen mentioned varies in analysis, dried blood containing from 15 to 18 per cent nitrogen, which means that in each 100 pounds of dried blood there is from 15 to 18 pounds of nitrogen. The function of nitrogen is to make plant growth, such as leaves, stalk, etc. A lack of nitrogen may be detected by the appearance of the plants, as large plants of dark green color would indicate an abundance of nitrogen, while small plants of poor color would indicate a lack of nitrogen.

Potash.
Practically all of the potash used is obtained from the potash mines of Germany, and can be purchased in three forms: muriate of potash and sulphate of potash, each analyzing 50 per cent potash. Another analyzing 14 per cent. The cost of unit of plant food is not as high as potash—is about the same as phosphoric acid. The chief function of potash is to strengthen plant tissue. It should make the stalk strong enough to stand up well, and is particularly valuable in giving certain fruits and vegetables firmness that for them to hold up in shipping.

Mixed Fertilizers.
The analysis printed on the bag, or tag, of ready mixed fertilizers, merely shows what per cent of each of the above ingredients is contained in that particular fertilizer. A fertilizer that is usually spoken of as analyzing 10-2-2, means that it contains 10 per cent phosphoric acid; 2 per cent ammonia (which yields 1.65 per cent nitrogen) and 2 per cent potash, or in other words, each 100 pound bag will contain 10 pounds of phosphoric acid, 2 pounds of ammonia and 2 pounds of potash. A fertilizer that would analyze 10-2-0 would be the same as the one given above, except that it would not contain potash. It will usually be profitable to buy the highest grade fertilizers that can be bought, for while the cost per ton will be greater the cost per pound of plant food will usually be smaller than in the low grade goods.
